Grandparent Support Group provides a community for senior caregivers

Daniel Richardson

Several grandparents gathered last Wednesday at the Hickman County Elementary School as part of Grandparent Support Group, a program that provides both moral and financial support to those with custody of their grandchildren.

Ann Neely, the Family Care Giver Coordinator for the Purchase Area Development District (PADD), presides over these meetings and provides assistance in applying for grants to help put the children through school.

"Not all of the grandparents involved qualify for the financial assistance," Neely said, "but they are here for the other support that the group provides." Neely explained that those with custody of grandchildren face some very unique problems and responsibilities, and being involved with a group of others in similar situations allows those grandparents to open up and share their experiences.

Neely explained that qualified caregivers can receive $500 per child, per year. This money can go toward the purchase of clothes for the child, bedroom furniture, school supplies, and other education-related items.

"The grant is based on income," Neely explained, "but we encourage everyone with custody of grandchildren to at least apply for the grant." Neely explained that it is better for caregivers to apply and be turned down than to not apply and find out later that they would have qualified.

There are currently eight to 10 caregivers involved with the group in Hickman

Prayer walk brings community together

Jessica Cooley

On Sunday evening, Sept. 23, groups from three churches met at the courthouse for the monthly prayer walk. The churches participating in the event included First Baptist, United Methodist, and the Assembly of God.

They began the program with four hymns, which were played by Dallas Pruitt on his guitar. The four hymns were Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus; Step By Step; I Have Decided to Follow Jesus; and Shine, Jesus Shine. The crowd sang the hymns enthusiastically.

Brother Aaron Dowdy, of the United Methodist Church, said, "We are going to walk through the community and

School year going well so far

Hickman County School Board gets briefed on progress

Daniel Richardson

The Hickman County School Board came together on Thursday night for their regular September meeting. The meeting was called to order at 7 p.m.

In Larry Farlee's principal's report, he told the school board what was scheduled to come up during the next month in the high school. Among other things, he reported that on Oct. 19, ten students would be going to attend the Paducah River Career Day. This, Farlee explained, is an event specifically for students who are looking to spend their career on the river, or near it by going to work with companies like Ingram Barge Company. Farlee said that 25 students applied to attend the career day, and a very careful selection was narrowed down to those who would best benefit from the career day.

During his report, Superintendent Kenny Wilson announced that Hickman County Schools did not attain the Monsanto Grant this year; the grant went to Calloway County. He also commended the students in scoring high on the ACT test. The average score was 19.8 (46th out of 230 schools). Wilson explained that on the day before the meeting, 28 students stayed after school for ACT prep, and 17 had stayed the previous Friday. Wilson told the board that the PLAN test would be given Tuesday, Sep. 25. This is a standardized test for high school sophomores. During his personnel report, Wilson stated that Lindsey and Shellie Caksackkar were hired as substitute teachers, Renee Cole had resigned, Stephanie Fisk had resigned as volleyball

The Spinda Blessing

Couple shares their adoption process

Jessica Cooley

John and Shanna Spinda's journey to becoming adoptive parents was long and hard.

John, a Murray State University communications professor, and Shanna, a Hickman County Elementary School special education teacher, lost their daughter, Stella Mae, five days after she was born prematurely in February of 2011.

About six months after losing her, the Spindas decided to look into adoption. "We went through Catholic Charities, because we are a Catholic family. Catholic charities isn't just open to Catholics; they are open to everyone," Shanna said. They sent away for the paper work to begin the, usually two-year adoption process. When that was finished, they attended an adoption workshop and were accepted as an adoptive family. Catholic Charities then proceeded with the Home Study, a lengthy process meant to determine if they were stable individuals capable of raising a child. "We had to gather all of our information and have physicals prior to the visit," Shanna explained. "They then sent someone to inspect our home to see if it was a safe environment." Of course, they were approved. They were then put on a waiting list. The Spindas, as do all adoptive families, made a scrapbook for the birth parents to go through. In the scrapbooks they were to make a "portfolio" of themselves, including their jobs, where they were from, etc. Six months after making their scrapbook, they received a call from the agency explaining that they

Health Fair at Senior Center provides services for Hickman Countians

Hickman Countians young and old took advantage of a great opportunity Thursday morning. The Health Fair held at the Hickman County Senior Citizens Center sponsored by First Community Bank drew what seemed like the whole county with good food and great services.

Participants in the Health Fair had their eyes checked for glaucoma, blood pressure checked, cholesterol checked, and were given helpful dietary tips. Booths were set up from institutions all over the region to increase health awareness to those who attended.

The Hickman County Extension Service had an interesting booth where Lisa Adams showed participants vials with different amounts of salt. The volume of these vials was representative of certain foods.

This health fair provided much helpful information to participants that came by on Thursday morning.

Hope Center holds annual banquet

Sheri Roberts

On Monday night, Sept. 17, the Hope Center in Mayfield, Ky., held the 2012 Annual Fundraising Banquet at the Young Center in Clinton. Leslie Wessel, executive director of the center, stated, "We are so pleased that we have 17 tables, approximately 130 people, that came tonight to show support for the services provided by the Hope Center." Leslie and Tabitha Smith, center director, spoke to the crowd, explaining why the center was formed, what the provided services are, and how the Center impacts surrounding communities. Some of the many services provided by the Bible-based, Christ centered ministry to young women are pregnancy tests, accurate information and counseling (on pregnancy, fetal development, parenting, and abortion risks), material assistance, abstinence education, and much more. They were excited to share the news that STD testing and treatment will be available by January 2013. The banquet was a celebration of the lives saved and the people assisted through this amazing work.

Those who attended the banquet were treated to a delicious meal and entertained by House Blend (Henry Brazzell, Devin Pittman, Lisa Brazzell, and Davis Henderson). These talented, local musicians played and sang several songs that inspired the audience. Guest speaker Mike G. Williams, a nationally known speaker and writer with a passion for life, kept those in attendance not only thinking seriously about his underlying message, but also laughing constantly.

Find out more about the Hope Center's pregnancy and family services by visiting the center on 1216 Paris Road in Mayfield, calling 270-247-3190, or contacting them at the website www.HopeMayfield.com.

TRAVELING THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER TRAIL - Ken Brixius, of Denver, Co., was in Hickman County on Thursday, Sept. 20 cycling the Mississippi River Trail. He was on St. Rt 239 around 1:15 p.m. on his way to Samburg, Tenn. Brixius began his journey in St. Louis, Mo. on Sept. 12. Holt signs on as new director for KTRA

Charlotte Smith

After earning a Bachelors of Arts degree from the University of Tennessee at Martin majoring in Communications with an emphasis in Public Relations Hollie Holt served as the Director of the Martin Economic Development Corporation for the City of Martin for three years. She also served as the Director for the University of Tennessee at Martin Regional Entrepreneurship and Economic Development (REED) Center for six years.

Last week she became the Ken-Tenn Regional Alliance director for six counties within the two states of Kentucky and Tennessee. A Tennessee resident, Holt has a strong background in economic development, which makes her the perfect choice for this important role. Previously living in Kentucky was another plus for Holt when deciding to take this position. She has knowledge of both states from her perspective as a resident, as well as someone working in the field of growing business in these rural counties. Holt grew up in Fulton before settling in Martin, Tenn., with her husband Steve and their four children.

"With my economic development background, it seemed like a natural fit for me to assume this position," she said last Thursday. Holt sees this as a great opportunity for her to work with two states that are poised for economic development.

"I am passionate about working each and every day to make this region a better place for generations to come," commented Hollie Holt.

"Ultimately, I hope to assist these communities with job creation and job retention," she noted. "With three river ports along the Mississippi, the construction of I-69, the Everett-Stewart Airport in Obion County, Tenn., and the University of Tennessee at Martin in close proximity to all six counties, this region is ready for jobs and industry.

I will be supporting the local economic developers in their pursuit of industry and new business."

Holt began her position on September 17. The position was recently held by Brad Thompson. The Ken-Tenn Regional Alliance encompasses Fulton, Hickman and Carlisle counties in Kentucky and Obion, Lake, and Weakley counties in Tennessee. Fulton County Judge/Executive David Gallagher is the KTRA chairman and Hickman County Judge/Executive Greg Pruitt represents Hickman County on the board.

Authors and art/crafts vendors needed for upcoming fair in December

TheHickmanCountyFriends of the Arts is in the planning stages for their upcoming Christmas Arts/Crafts/Book Fair set for Saturday, Dec. 1, in the gymnasium at the Hickman County Elementary School in Clinton. The Fair draws shoppers from western Kentucky and northwestern Tennessee and is expected to be even bigger and better this year due to an advertising budget that includes a direct mail catalog and possible TV advertising.

The Fair is currently recruiting new vendors and is limited to craftsmen and artists who hand-make their own items for sale, vendors who offer food items prepared in their own kitchens and local companies, as well as authors who are selling their own publications. Vendors offering products and food items that are commercially made are not accepted by the Fair. The cost for a booth is $30.

For more information, artists and craftsmen should contact Danny Whitlock at 270-653-4379 or whitlockdg@bellsouth.net. Authors should contact Ivan Potter at 270-653-3312 or editor@missriverjo.com. Applications are being mailed next week, please respond quickly to reserve your booth space.

My View

By Dennis Richardson

Those Fall days

As I look out over the lake behind our home I can't help but wonder where the time went. The concrete walking trail around the perimeter of the lake is about abandoned except for a few straggler walkers (and runners). If it weren't for this chest cold I would have been out there a little more regularly myself.

I learned from experience that the poplar tree next to the lake will soon dump the balance of its leaves and if the wind blows just right most of them will end up in the pool skimmers. Is there some organic use for salty poplar tree leaves? Usually they end up in some of the washed out ruts on the side of the hill.

Fall is one of those times of the year that after a good rain clears out all the pollen that the air seems lighter and easier to breathe. The birds are making a lot of noise in the mornings and the few passes overhead that the antique air planes over at the Berry's place make catch Bella's interest.

Bella is our new great-grand kitten. She is one of four from a litter from Blair, our grand-cat at Daniel and Lena's house. Blair came to West Tennessee after being found at a UPS terminal in Atlanta and brought home by Lisa and Joan who were visiting with friends there.

Bella is almost jet black except for a tinge of grey. There are conflicting reports as to where her name came from, whether it is short for Isabella or from the fact that she bellers a lot (look that one up).

She meowed a lot walking around the house so I set her out on the front porch, which brought on just that much more. But after I went out and showed her around she seemed to like it and has been reluctant to come inside.

But the days are warm and crisp and she needs to experience the great outdoors...so out she went (well, during daylight hours, anyway).

Summer is now officially over.

According to calendars, the Fall Equinox came about on Saturday, Sept. 22, which was a very warm day as compared to the days before and those after.

I can tell that the days are getting shorter and that if Bella is to remain outside longer than just a few hours at a time we need to recruit either her brother or sister.

had been chosen to be interviewed by a couple who liked their scrap book. "We were in utter disbelief, and we were filled with excitement and what if's," Shanna said. "We were very lucky because the average waiting period is two years!"

They scheduled a meeting with the couple and headed there with a mixture of emotions.

When they arrived, the found out that the couple was very impressed with their scrapbook. "They were very pleased that our scrapbook focused on our plans for the future and not our past," Shanna explained. While there, they were shown pictures of the child up for adoption. Her name was Sophia June. "You can't tell me that was a coincidence!" Shanna exclaimed. "When we saw her picture we could only think of how gorgeous she was and right then, we knew she was meant to be with us." They left the meeting full of anticipation and anxiousness. They waited for what seemed like forever, but the agency soon called to let the Spindas know that they were being placed with Sophia! "We were so excited!" Shanna said. Although Sophia was placed in their care, the birth parents could still change their mind until their rights were terminated. Fortunately, that didn't happen; the birth parents' rights were terminated on August 17, and Sophia is now in the Spindas' hands as their foster child. "We will soon get a hearing to finalize the adoption, and I can't wait to hear the judge say that she is ours!" Shanna said. Sophia is happily living with the Spindas, waiting for that day to come.

When asked if she had any advice for parents looking to adopt, she had this to say: "You HAVE to be strong; this is not something for the weak hearted. You can't just decide to adopt; you have to look into it and prepare." She also wanted to share this quote: "It's hard to wait around for something you know may never happen, but it's even harder to give up when it's everything you've ever wanted." (Author unknown.) "This says it all," she said.

The faculty at Hickman County Elementary School held a baby shower for Shanna on July 30. "I arrived for a PD (Professional Development) day at the school and when it was over, I noticed that everyone started bringing in food and presents. They said it was my baby shower, and I was very surprised!" Shanna exclaimed.

John and Shanna are so grateful to God for Sophia,

Lady Falcons dominate Comets

Makenna LeBlanc

On Tuesday, Sept. 18, the Lady Falcons volleyball team hosted the Carlisle County Lady Comets at home. The Junior Varsity went up against our notorious rivals first, taking the floor ready to dominate. The first set went smoothly, with great serves and strong teamwork. Jasmine Myatt was a key player, serving a perfect 13-13 with 6 aces. The JV squad as a whole served 34-40. The first set scored 21-11 and the second 21-16. The girls were proud of their performance. The Varsity squad took the floor next, determined to beat the Lady Comets. The first set was a breeze, with a score of 25-18. However, they had some struggles in the second set, and lost 15-25. They prepared for the third set, confident that they would pull down a win. Addie Bowman helped to lead them to their victory, serving a perfect 10-10 with 1 ace. The Lady Falcons won the third set 25-11, and showed the Carlisle County Lady Comets what teamwork, determination, and Falcon pride can do. The girls are scheduled to play again tonight, Sept. 25, at Fulton County at 6 p.m.

YARD OF THE WEEK - On Highway 123 west, just inside the town of Columbus, the stately Cunningham home graces a small rise with its sweeping skirt of lawn and well-appointed landscaping features. As the weather cools, the trees that frame the yard will add extra color, keeping this yard lovely through the days of fall, continuing to celebrate the vision and dedication of homeowners all around the county who have made choosing Yards of the Week a pleasant task each week. Next week will feature the last Yard of the Week for the 2012 season.

FAMILY OF FOUR - These four deer were spotted in a corn field on Rt 239 Wednesday morning, Sept. 19, around 10 a.m. Bow season to hunt deer is open now and gun season will open in mid-November. Wood duck season opened on September 19 and lasted five days. Don't forget to send us your best hunting photos. (Photo by Charlotte Smith.)

GO BIG - Senior Kennady Yarbro spikes the ball. The Lady Falcons hosted the Lady Comets on September 18. The Junior Varsity won in two sets and the Varsity won in three, winning two out of three. (Photo by Makenna LeBlanc.)

Cemetery Clean-up

Clean-up day for Columbus Cemetery will be held Saturday, Oct. 6. Volunteers will need to bring rubber gloves, a soft brush, a bucket, and extra water. Your help with this important work will be appreciated and the results will be there for all to see.

HABITAT - Tracy Stephens signs the Acceptance Document from Habitat for Humanity of Fulton and Hickman Counties, KY Inc. to enter into agreement as the partner family on HFH's next house. The house will be built in Clinton. Yvonne Bolen, a member of HFH's Family Selection Committee, witnesses the signing.

coach, Joe Hannon was hired as a custodian, and John David Turner will retire on Sep. 28. Wilson mentioned that the proposed lease of the rec building to the Extension Board will not go as smoothly as previously expected. He said that according to Tim Lucas, the school board could not enter into a contract longer than a one year lease unless there is a provision for a 30 day notice of cancellation. However, he said that could be waived by Amy Peabody. At the time of the meeting, no one had been able to get in touch with Peabody. On Monday afternoon, Mr. Wilson said that he had spoken with Peabody and felt confident that everything would work out as long an agreement is reached that everyone can live with. In other business, the school board approved the payment of $14,781.55 to Southern Roofing Co., Inc. for the re-roofing project, and approved the 2012-13 working budget. The Hickman County School Board will hold their next meeting on Thursday, Oct. 18, at 7 p.m. at the Hickman County Board of Education.

ALL ACROSS THE UNITED STATES AMERICANS PROTEST THEIR BANKS

You've seen the headlines. Some people are blaming their banks for the state of the economy and their own financial hardships. While the nation's largest banks have had their share of trouble lately, community banks are able to provide better service than ever! First Community Bank is proud to be a local bank serving Clinton, KY and the surrounding communities even better than the "big bankers".

community and pray for it, and the people in it." The groups were to pray that God would remove the social and racial barriers between the neighbors in this community, God would bless the pastors of this community, Justice would prevail, and that crime would be erased; God would strengthen families and bless each home, God would destroy poverty, God would deliver the people in this community from self-centeredness, and whatever else that was on their hearts. The group of people were split into three teams: First Baptist, United Methodist, and Assembly of God. Community volunteers were split into seven districts. Team First Baptist was assigned to districts five and six (from Hickman County High School to Hopkins Drive). Team United Methodist was assigned to districts two and three (from Clay Street to near Arlington). Team Assembly of God was assigned to district seven (From Mayfield Road to Crestview Drive). The teams were to cover their assigned districts and pray while they walked. "Space yourselves out a little so you don't converse too much, but pray," said Dallas Pruitt. The people who couldn't walk the distance could stay in the courtyard and pray for the community as well. The teams left their minds on God and the well being of the community. We should all do the same.
